

KRISTU JAYANTI SCHOOL OF MANAGEMENT ORGANISED THE VINIMAY LEADERSHIP SERIES

The Kristu Jayanti School of Management, in collaboration with the Department of Computer Science (PG) and Business Standard, organised the Vinimay Leadership Series, featuring an engaging session led by Mr Mike Murali, Chief Happiness and Fun Officer – HR, Capgemini. The event drew a significant crowd of students and faculty, offering insights into life, leadership, and personal growth.

Mr Murali, the chief guest, captivated the audience with his explanation of the "5 E's" that shape success: Evolution, Education, Environment, Experiment, and Enjoyment. He emphasized the importance of personal evolution, education beyond textbooks, and fostering a positive environment with friends who encourage growth. "Setting a benchmark for yourself is necessary in this ever-evolving world," Mr Murali said, urging students to chase their goals with determination. He also highlighted the significance of staying connected to one's roots, stating, "We need to be proud of our culture and mother language. It defines who productivity.

The event, which also saw dignitaries such as Mr S Jayaraam, Deputy General Manager of Market Development - South, Business Standard; Mr Manikandan from Business Standard; Dr Joseph Charles D, Head of the School of Management; and Dr Kumar R, Head of the Department of Computer Science (PG), included a lively Q&A session that encouraged student participation. Mr Murali also engaged in a fireside chat with MBA students, discussing the impact of happiness and fun at work on employee productivity. He delved into the metrics used to assess happiness and the process of integrating fun into organisational culture. The event was a grand success, benefiting nearly 420 students and 25 faculty members. It concluded with the college anthem, leaving participants inspired and motivated for the future.
