ABOUT THE PROGRAMME

Today, we are inundated with data from around the world. But markets and institutions today and the set of regulations on the books is based on a long history of factors. And this process is dynamic. Understanding the present and planning for the future, requires an approach which collates data with logic and analysis. Financial dynamics is a discipline that helps to take multiple and granular views of a company's financial data and use it to gain insight and take action. Although financial analytics has a wide reach and touches all parts of your company, it is especially useful in the context of profitability—a very important component of business success and performance management. Today's business challenges demand timely financial information that enables executives, managers, and front-line employees to make better decisions, take action, and correct problems before they affect the company's financial performance. Achieving better business performance requires more than just improving process efficiency or enhancing financial reporting. Rather, it requires improving effectiveness by leveraging advanced analytics that integrate data from across the organization and provide insight to the people who can impact business performance. To fully understand the factors driving the business requires timely financial information combined with data from across the company value chain.

Here are few questions for which financial dynamics can give an answer

What are the risks to which the business is exposed ?

How to enhance and extend the business processes to make them work more effectively ?

Are the investments made in the right path ?

How is the profit of the product across different sales channels and customers ?

Which segment of the market is expected to bring more profit to the business in the future ?

What are the factors that could affect the business in the future ?

Most of the finance functions are automatic and requires only fewer resources to manage them. In this context, FDP is organized to fully understand the factors that drives the business that requires capital market information across the company value chain.
